

PayPal Presale Offer Terms and Conditions

By participating in the State Fayre presale tickets offer through PayPal (the “Offer”), participants agree to these terms and conditions (“Terms”). The Offer is live from 9am, Wednesday 26th November 2025 and ends on the earlier of sell-out of the allocated presale ticket inventory or from 9am, Friday 28th November 2025 – whichever comes first (“Offer Period”).

Offer

Access presale tickets for State Fayre (“Event”) through the Ticketmaster platform using your Valid Account (defined below) during the Offer Period. Tickets are sold on a first-come, first-served basis, subject to availability. There is a maximum limit of 4 tickets per Valid Account.

Who Can Take Part

To be eligible for the Offer, participants must:

- Hold a personal UK PayPal account in good standing during the Offer Period (“Valid Account”).

Ticket Purchase and Event Details

- Ticket purchase and attendance are subject to Ticketmaster’s Purchase Policy and Privacy Notice.
- The Event is subject to the Event organiser’s terms and conditions of entry.
- If the Event is cancelled after ticket purchase, Ticketmaster will notify you using the contact details provided at purchase.

For questions or complaints:

Contact the State Fayre for matters relating to the Event; or contact Ticketmaster for presale ticket queries.

Important Details

- The Offer cannot be exchanged, refunded, transferred, or resold, and cannot be used with any other offer for the Event.
- No cash alternative is available.
- Capacity restrictions may apply to the Ticketmaster website during busy periods.
- PayPal accepts no responsibility for technical issues, errors, or other circumstances beyond its reasonable control that may affect participation or ticket availability.

General

PayPal may limit, suspend, or amend this Offer at any time and will provide reasonable notice when possible. Accounts and transactions may be reviewed for eligibility. Similar offers may run concurrently, but each is governed separately. PayPal is not responsible for any communications or Offer-related materials that are lost, delayed, misdirected, altered, incomplete, fraudulent, or otherwise defective. We are also not liable if your contact details or account information are changed or incorrect without prior notice to us. For details about privacy, view PayPal’s Privacy Policy or contact us directly for any questions.

PayPal and Ticketmaster reserve the right to cancel or refuse any purchase if:

- It breaches Ticketmaster’s Purchase Policy or these Terms;
- Presale tickets have sold out or the Offer Period has expired;
- Ticketmaster reasonably believes the purchase is intended for commercial resale; or
- The request exceeds the maximum ticket limit per person.

Offers are void where prohibited by law or in cases of fraud, abuse, or misuse. All decisions regarding Offer eligibility and operation are final.

Law and Jurisdiction

These Terms are governed by the laws of England and Wales. By participating, you agree to these Terms, the PayPal User Agreement and Ticketmaster’s Purchase Policy.

Promoter’s information and PayPal’s regulatory status

The promoter of this offer is Festival Republic Ltd. Please contact State Fayre for questions regarding the offer.

PayPal UK Ltd is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) for electronic money services (firm reference 994790), consumer credit (996405), and cryptocurrency services (1000741). Registered office: 5 Fleet Place, London, EC4M 7RD. Company number: 14741686. Marketing services are provided by PayPal Pte Ltd (Singapore, reg. no. 200509725E, 5 Temasek Boulevard, #09-01, Suntec Tower Five, Singapore 038985).